New @ 6 months: Fun Flaps to Flip

Can you say that five times fast? Even if you can't, this is still the perfect phrase to describe All About Me! our new 6 month book. Distribution is expected to begin in August and it replaces Rainbow Colors Peekaboo!

Share These Book Tips with Parents

Each flap of All About Me! features a different part of the body from mouth and nose to chubby toes. The large, sturdy flaps are easy for small hands to manipulate and will stand up to some rough-and-tumble handling.

There are other ways a baby can enjoy this book as she grows, from learning colors to counting ten tiny toes.

Well child visits are short and there are many things to cover. If you're out of time, but want to share reading information with a family, tell parents to check out Raising Readers on Facebook.

Raising Readers
(excerpt) I recently took my daughter to her 15 month Well Child Checkup and received "If You're Happy and You Know It" ...she immediately gravitated toward this book. Opening the book and turning the pages and then closing the book and holding it close to her chest...I was surprised due to the fact she has been less interested in sitting with mommy to read lately due to her newly acquired mobility.

Raising Readers
Another great board book featuring a familiar song and designed to get kids moving. Also helps kids learn body parts. Head, shoulders, knees and toes...

Food for Thought

"Babies are born with the instinct to speak, the way spiders are born with the instinct to spin webs. You don't need to train babies to speak; they just do. But reading is different."

— Steven Pinker
